

North Dakota Comprehensive Tobacco-free Parks

BreatheND
Saving lives, saving money. The voice of the people.

More North Dakota communities are following a national trend of going tobacco-free in their public parks. Tobacco-free parks are cleaner, greener and safer places for families to enjoy healthy recreation, and they set an example that will help keep the next generation free of all forms of tobacco. 20 cities in North Dakota currently have tobacco-free park policies. If you'd like to help make your parks tobacco-free, contact your local public health unit at www.breathend.com.

Casselton

Park District-owned recreational facilities

Cooperstown

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Dickinson

Park Board-owned recreational facilities

Ellendale

City-owned recreational facilities

Fairmount

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Fessenden

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Garrison

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Grand Forks

Park District-owned recreational facilities

Harvey

Park Board-owned recreational facilities

Hoople

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Kindred

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Langdon

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Mapleton

Park Board-owned recreational facilities

Mayville

Park district recreational facilities

Milnor

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Park River

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Pekin

Stump Lake Village

Rolette

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

St. Thomas

City-owned parks and recreational facilities

Wahpeton

Park Board-owned recreational facilities

North Dakota Center for Tobacco Prevention and Control Policy

701.328.5130 • 4023 State Street, Suite 65 • Bismarck, ND 58503-0638 • BreatheND.com • Updated March 2017